LOST CHILD. - The western part of the locality known as Nailor's Hill was kept awake the greater part of last night by an almost general search there for a little boy, between three and four years of age, a child of Mr. Jonathan Pierpoint, who, about 5 o'clock yesterday evening, had strayed away from the bouse of his grandfather, Mr. John H. Baggott, who lives in that neighborhood. The search was given up about midnight, but the little fellow was found just before daylight this morning by a market man on his way to market, setting up in a feace corner in the lane in front of Penny Hill burying ground, crying fit to kill himself, and as wet as he could be from the rain which for some time had been falling.

TENNISON, of Alexandria, made his fame and fortune by his fried oysters. His secret was very simple-to keep a barrel of lard at the cook's elbow, and never to stiot her. That is the whole mystery. Few people are aware of the fact that feying is simply boiling in oil; the thing fried must float in oil and never touch the pan; if it does, it will smell and taste of burnt grease. - Native Virginian.

DIED.

This community was grieved day before yesterday to learn of the sudden death of ALEX-ANDER KENNEDY. Scarcely had his butiness and social friends missed him from his accustomed walks, when the announcement

Came that he was no more.

One of the finest specimens of the substantial type of Scottish merchants amongst us, Mr. Kennedy was A man of high integrity, of universal charity, of a patriotism the offshoots of which clung to his new as its roots were steadfastly anchored in his old country; and of a geniality of disposition which was contagious.

Kindly and simple of heart, he was a good friend to all who deserved his liking. He died on the day which gave birth to Burns. No truer Scotchman ever fought with Bruce, or came at last to rest from trouble in the "land [COMMUNICATED. The concert which came off on Thursday night, at the Assembly Rooms, was one of the most superb of its kind ever given in our city, either by amateurs or professional singers, and the applause which greeted the performers attested the appreciation of the crowded audience assembled on that occasion.
